

100 Years, 100 Kids' Books about Sharing and Kindness

Have you ever shared a book in a Little Free Library? With this simple act of kindness, you're helping make books accessible to everyone—and you're helping get kids excited about reading!

All of us at the Little Free Library nonprofit organization are thrilled to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Children's Book Week with a special list of books about sharing and kindness—from Mo Willems' hilarious Should I Share My Ice Cream? to Jacqueline Woodson's meaningful Every Kindness.

We hope you enjoy this reading list, and we hope you take part in the Little Free Library movement! Here are a few ways to get involved::

1. Share a book in a Little Free Library book exchange for someone else to find.
2. Join the Action Book Club, which combines reading with community service projects.
3. Start your own Little Free Library! You can host it in your front yard, or at your school or public park, with permission.
